

IN OLDEN DAYS

Guglielmo Bertetta

This painting represents a memory of a more tranquil era in the wine country. The subject of this painting is taken from an old family photograph of a vineyard and dairy nestled in a far corner of Knights Valley. The expansion of this prized Cabernet growing region over time has changed this vista dramatically. The rolling hills beyond the vineyard are now blanketed with lush vineyards replacing the former pastures. With the exception of the barn on the left all of the structures are gone. A hidden country road that divides the dairy and vineyard is now part of the well traveled state Hiway 128.
